

Adam Shrager

March 28- April 1

This has been a hectic week. The rest of the website has been put together and it is looking great. The maps worked out really well and my question is very clearly answered. The website is very easy to use. It starts off with a picture filled homepage with a brief description of the project and a button that takes you to it. Then you can view the project. You may also click on the about page for more info about the project. Then you may view my bibliography on the sources page. Ms. Goodman will also be able to see my PMDs and Journals on an unlinked part of the site. In the next few days I hope to improve upon the aesthetics of the website. I also want to ensure that all of the spelling and grammar is correct because not doing that would be very embarrassing.