

Adam Shrager

March 21- 25

I have a website now. It has latin in most places acting as fillers for text but it looks great and I am going to have a great time building it. Ram Zallan has now stepped in to help me create this because Justin has been very busy. Unfortunately, I am going to have to go with the alternative method to the google maps. The photoshopping of the maps has begun. I must say they are looking ten times better than what I thought they were going to end up looking like. It is at this time that I will declare I am behind schedule on my PMD. By the beginning of this week the website was supposed to be done but as I have mentioned it is not. In any case, I still think the project will turn out well. The website is cool and practical, the facts are solid, and there is still a lot of time left. Losing Justin was kind of a major setback but this is my project and I will continue without him.